

Home Canning Resources 2008

A great place to begin your search for home food preservation information is on the Food Safety and Health web site: www.foodsafety.wisc.edu. Check out the tab at the top for Food Preservation and you will find a wealth of information.

Publications - NEWLY REVISED! The newly revised Wisconsin Safe Food Publications are available for easy downloading by consumers and educators alike. Also available are powerpoint files for teaching workshops in food preservation and helpful links to other sites, including the National Center for Home Food Preservation www.uga.edu/nchfp/.

Each of the Wisconsin Safe Food Preservation publications has been revised and expanded to match new guidelines from the United States Department of Agriculture for safe home canning. The new 2008 publications are available for easy download by consumers.
